

Amend Section 7093.6 of the Sales and Use Tax Law to allow the Board to compromise certain final tax liabilities of 1) businesses that are not discontinued or transferred if the final tax liability arises from transactions in which the taxpayer did not receive sales tax or use tax reimbursement, 2) persons liable for successor liability, and 3) consumers incurring a use tax liability. To the extent they are applicable, similar provisions would be incorporated into the Board-administered special taxes and fees programs.

Existing Law

Under existing law, Section 7093.6 of the Sales and Use Tax Law allows the Board to compromise a final tax liability if certain requirements are met. This section was added in 2002 by AB 1458 (Stats. 2002, Ch. 152) and became effective January 1, 2003. Consistent with that provision, the Board has created an Offers in Compromise (OIC) Section which is solely responsible for making compromises under the provisions of Section 7093.6. Compromises are accepted when a tax liability is final, and the OIC Section finds that the amount the taxpayer proposes to pay represents the maximum amount the Board can expect to collect from that taxpayer in a reasonable period of time – typically five to seven years.

Under the law, one of the requirements to compromise a final tax liability is that an offer can only be considered with respect to liabilities that were generated from a business that has been discontinued or transferred, where the taxpayer making the offer no longer has a controlling interest or association with the transferred business or a controlling interest or association with a similar type of business as the transferred or discontinued business.

This proposal would allow the Board to compromise certain types of final tax liabilities where this requirement is not met.

This Proposal

This proposal is seeking to allow compromises for taxpayers who may otherwise have to sell or discontinue their businesses because of their inability to pay in full a final tax liability that arose from transactions in which the taxpayers did not collect sales tax reimbursement or use tax reimbursement from the purchasers or other persons. These situations often arise because a taxpayer mistakenly believed that the transactions were exempt or excluded from tax. Upon audit, the taxpayer first learns that these transactions are subject to tax, but the taxpayer cannot legally or realistically collect tax reimbursement from his or her customers. In addition, this proposal allows compromises from successor liability where the successor is still in business¹, and from use tax determined by the Board against a consumer who is not required to hold a seller's permit.

This proposal would allow such final tax liabilities to be compromised if the other requirements of Section 7093.6 are met even though the taxpayer still owns and operates the business or similar type of business. However, this proposal only applies to "qualified final tax liabilities" which are (1) determined liabilities to the extent that they arise from transactions in which tax reimbursement was not collected by the taxpayer from the purchasers or other persons, (2) successor liabilities, and (3) determined use tax liabilities made against consumers who are not required to hold a seller's permit with the Board. The current requirement of a discontinued or transferred business would still apply to all other final tax liabilities, such as determined liabilities arising from transactions in which the taxpayer has collected tax reimbursement.

This proposal would also give taxpayers that do not have the ability to pay an offer with a lump sum amount with an option to pay an offered amount in installments for a period not exceeding one year, at the Board's discretion. The proposal also specifies that the Board may choose to have payments remitted via electronic funds transfer or other means in order to reduce or improve the default rate that sometimes accompanies installment payments. The proposal provides, however, that the Board may rescind the compromise and reestablish the liability if taxpayer fails to fully comply with the installment payment agreement.

Offers in Compromise programs are also available for income tax liabilities due the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) and the Franchise Tax Board (FTB), as well as employment tax liabilities due the Employment Development Department (EDD). Both the IRS and FTB's programs have the ability to compromise liabilities of ongoing businesses, and according to FTB, are frequently made. Thus, this proposal would provide further consistency with those tax agencies' programs. However, FTB indicates that the vast majority of such compromises contain a collateral agreement so that if a taxpayer's income situation changes over the next five years, FTB can recoup the amount compromised. Also, the IRS and EDD allow installment payment option terms for offered amounts where the offered funds cannot be paid in a lump sum.

Section 7093.6 of the Revenue and Taxation Code is amended to read:

7093.6. (a)(1) Beginning January 1, 2003, the executive director and chief counsel of the board, or their delegates, may compromise any final tax liability in which the reduction of tax is seven thousand five hundred dollars ($7,500) or less.

(2) Except as provided in paragraph (3), the board, upon recommendation by its executive director and chief counsel, jointly, may compromise a final tax liability involving a reduction in tax in excess of seven thousand five hundred dollars ($7,500). Any recommendation for approval of an offer in compromise that is not either approved or disapproved within 45 days of the submission of the recommendation shall be deemed approved.

(3) The board, itself, may by resolution delegate to the executive director and the chief counsel, jointly, the authority to compromise a final tax liability in which the reduction of tax is in excess of seven thousand five hundred dollars ($7,500), but less than ten thousand dollars ($10,000).

(b) For purposes of this section, "a final tax liability" means any final tax liability arising under Part 1 (commencing with Section 6001), Part 1.5 (commencing with Section 7200), Part 1.6 (commencing with Section 7251), and Part 1.7 (commencing with Section 7280) or related interest, additions to tax, penalties, or other amounts assessed under this part.

(c)(1) Offers in compromise shall be considered only for liabilities that were generated from a business that has been discontinued or transferred, where the taxpayer making the offer no longer has a controlling interest or association with the transferred business or has a controlling interest or association with a similar type of business as the transferred or discontinued business.

(2) Notwithstanding paragraph (1), the Board may compromise a qualified final tax liability regardless of whether the business has been discontinued or transferred or whether the taxpayer has a controlling interest or association with a similar type of business as the transferred or discontinued business. All other provisions of this section that apply to a final tax liability shall also apply to a qualified final tax liability, and no compromise shall be made under this subdivision unless all other requirements of this section are met. For purposes of this subdivision, a "qualified final tax liability" means:

(A) That part of a final tax liability, including related interest, additions to tax, penalties or other amounts assessed under this part, arising from a transaction or transactions in which the Board finds no evidence that the taxpayer collected sales tax reimbursement or use tax reimbursement from the purchaser or other person and which was determined by the Board against the taxpayer under Article 2 (commencing with Section 6481), Article 3 (commencing with Section 6511), and Article 5 (commencing with Section 6561) of Chapter 5.

(B) A final tax liability, including related interest, additions to tax, penalties or other amounts assessed under this part, arising under Article 7 (commencing with Section 6811); or

(C) That part of a final tax liability for use tax, including related interest, additions to tax, penalties or other amounts assessed under this part, determined by the Board under Article 2 (commencing with Section 6481),

Article 3 (commencing with Section 6511), and Article 5 (commencing with Section 6561) of Chapter 5 against a taxpayer who is a consumer that is not required to hold a permit with the Board under Section 6066.

(3) The Board may not compromise a qualified final tax liability with:

(A) A taxpayer who previously received a compromise under paragraph (2) for a liability, or a part thereof, arising from a transaction or transactions that are substantially similar to the transaction or transactions attributable to the liability for which the taxpayer is making the offer; or

(B) A business that was transferred by a taxpayer who previously received a compromise under paragraph (2) and who has a controlling interest or association with the transferred business, when the liability for which the offer is made is attributable to a transaction or transactions substantially similar to the transaction or transactions for which the taxpayer's liability was previously compromised; or

(C) With a business in which a taxpayer who previously received a compromise under paragraph (2) has a controlling interest or association with a similar type of business for which the taxpayer received the compromise, when the liability of the business making the offer arose from a transaction or transactions substantially similar as the transaction or transactions for which the taxpayer's liability was previously compromised.

(d) The Board may, in its discretion, enter into an agreement which permits the taxpayer to pay the compromise in installments for a period not exceeding one year. The agreement may provide that such installments shall be paid by electronic funds transfers or any other means to facilitate the payment of each installment. If a taxpayer fails to fully comply with the terms of the installment payment agreement, the Board may, by written notice to the taxpayer, terminate the agreement, rescind the compromise, retain all previously remitted payments pursuant to the agreement, and reestablish the remaining final tax liability.
